"And, by the way, in answer to those who are doubtful as to efficient and cheap transportation, I may add as to Boston's experience that its two beach resorts were more remote from the centre of Boston than the beach park we hope to get is from the congested districts of New York. Also, on the point of cost after phrchase, Boston recovers the cost of operation in the case of both of its freeorts by the sale of privileges; that is, licenses for such places of amusement as it is desired we should have, and for the sale of food, candy and so forth.

"If you will look at this map you will see that the property down there at Rocks."

What he calls his wife's insistent habit of "calling him by telephone at all hours of the day and night" is made the basis of the day and night. Mr. Holton tells how when he had a position in Somerville his employers told him that they would discharge him if his wife did not stop calling him up every few minutes on the telephone.

"I asked her to cure herself of the habit," said Mr. Holton, "and the only way I got a little respite was by applying for an injunction to restrain her."

At the hearing on the injunction case in the equity session of the Superior Court the application was denied, the court holding that the husband's employers must bring the action in such cases. "And, by the way, in answer to those

if you will look at this map you will see that the property down there at Rockaway is accessible by indicated routes on the Long Island Railroad, B. R. T. surface, and Queens Borough trolley lines. These are in addition to the steamboat line from Manhattan to the Jamaica Bay shore of the proposed park. But more than that, the map shows six additional prospective connections. I think any interurban transit authority will assure you that when the park is in operation all of these proposed extensions will be found ready to serve the people."

The same authority called attention to the fact that the petition asking for immediate action in the Seaside Park matter, besides being signed by Bishop David H. Greer, Archbishop John M. Farley Jacob H. Schiff, Henry Phipps, Gustav H. Schwab, William Fellowes Morgan and many other individuals prominent in benewbent and charitable works, was "heartily indorsed" by Thomas Darlington, Health Commissioner; John Winters Brannan. President of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals; William H. Maxwell. Superintendent of Public Schools, and W. R. Willox, former President of the Park Board.

"It think that soon the Board of Estimate"

"I think that soon the Board of Estimate will be informed that other officials whose business brings them into contact with conditions relating to health and crime also will indorse our petition.

There is just one more respect in which I would like to speak of this, and that is as an investment. Americans are said to know when they are getting their money's worth, and to be especially keen when a good investment is within seath. Can New York city make a better investment to-day than securing an ocean park for its enormous population? With less room to grow and growing faster than most of the other large dities of the world can New York afford to lose this opportunity to provide a breathing place for those who live surfounded by the evils of congestion but upon whose health and vigor will depend much of the future success of the city?

If we spend our money to-day on a nearby ocean park shall we not on many to-morrows get our money's worth and more in large returns of that vitality which comes from all healthy expansion?

Dr. Felix Adler said yesterday:

I am completely in favor of the immediate resumption by the city of its suspended proceedings to acquire the mile and a half of Rockaway Beach proparty for use by the public as a park. The reasons stated in the petition are convincing and imperative. It is possibly the last opportunity, to obtain a suitable site for such a park.

The Legislature has acted and the Board of Estimate and conceive that any public spirited citizen should fail to give his support to a measure so wise and so urgantly needed, nor can I conceive of public as pirited officials healtaing to decide a question so urgently important, and upon in information so complete as that possessed by the present Board of Estimate and Apportionment, simply because they are about to leave office.

"We find," he said, "that citizens generally have a better understanding of the purposes of this movement and the great good it will accomplish than when it was agitated before. We think it is generally understood now, also that there is no graft in sight for any one. The Sun I think recently explained something about the present ownership which helped to correct public opinion in respect to that plan.

"Our reasons for urgency are that the next administration will hardly feet justified in acting without independent investigation. Everything relating to the subject has received very careful examination by the present administration and any considerable delay now would of course tend to raise the cost of getting the property, possibly raise it to a prohibitive price.

have the case put off for a longer time. Judge Swann held that both sides had had plenty of time to get ready and declined to set the case later. Senator Platt at last accounts was out of the State at Atlantic City.

Miss Wood sued Senator Platt for divorce and produced a letter purporting to have been written by him at the Fifth Avenue Hotel acknowledging his marriage to her. This letter was pronounced a forgery and Miss Wood was arrested. She is now out on bail. The Court will be asked to dismiss the case if it is not prosecuted on December 15.

Fashionable Two and Three-piece Models Their Average Value, $40.00; Special, $19.74

This is ONE of the greatest purchases we've made during recent years -not in respect to quantity, but quality.

Every one of them the product of a manufacturer who keeps closest watch on the changes of foreign style centres. He studies all the little and big touches of newnesses and has the knack to copy them or adapt and modify them in ways that are wonderfully effective.

The materials include fine broadcloths, diagonal serges, cheviot mixtures and many handsome imported novelty fabrics in black, blue and many other colors. Long and medium length coats-some severely tailored, others richly braided; pleated and panel skirts.

We advertise "average value $40.00." All you need do is to glance at the group to see models that your own judgment tells you are worth $45.00 and $50.00. Not one is worth less than
